CONNECTING the COMMUNITY
SALT LAKE COMMUNITY COLLEGE

*April 10, 2006
Lifetime Activities Center*

At Salt Lake Community College, we know that the well-being of any community rests on a network of connections—students to teachers, graduates to employers, business to education, those in need to those who can help.

Our inaugural theme “Connecting the CommUNITY” acknowledges SLCC’s integral role in strengthening these connections and celebrates a community working together toward a brighter future.

President

Salt Lake Community College

*A*fter an extensive national search, Dr. Cynthia A. Bioteau was selected to head Salt Lake Community College as the institution's seventh president. Dr. Bioteau joined the SLCC community on July 17, 2005.

Dr. Bioteau has more than 30 years of experience as an educator and administrator, serving in educational, mental health, and community-based institutions throughout the eastern U.S., most recently in North Carolina. She is known for her passion for positioning the community college at the core of economic and workforce development and building partnerships with business, industry, education, community, and governmental agencies.

Dr. Bioteau holds a Bachelor's Degree from the University of New Hampshire, a Master's Degree from Assumption College in Worcester, Massachusetts, and a Doctor of Philosophy Degree from Lesley University in Cambridge, Massachusetts.

Among her many professional honors, Dr. Bioteau received the 2002 Boston Public Schools Higher Education Partnership Service Award and the 2001 Outstanding Developmental Program in New England Award. Her contemporary publications include: Critical Transformations: Essays of Voice for Nontraditional Adult Learners; Beyond the Open Gate: Influences on Student Success; The Community College as a Catalyst for Change; Creating the Mosaic of Community Literacy; Gateways to Empowerment.

Dr. Bioteau was responsible for creating and implementing the first associate degree in Nanotechnology for the state of North Carolina, as well as the five-college National Initiative recently funded through the United States Department of Labor—The National Center for the Biotechnology Workforce. She has been an invited presenter by the U.S. Department of Labor to national audiences on the importance of community colleges to regional and national economic development and recovery.

Dr. Bioteau currently serves on the Urban Central Board of Trustees for Intermountain Healthcare; the Board of Directors of the Museum of Utah Art & History; the Board of Trustees for the Utah Technology Council; and the Board of Directors of the Economic Development Corporation of Utah.

According to Dr. Bioteau, perhaps her most valued accomplishments are the two wonderful adult children she shares with her husband of 32 years. Together they enjoy family, fly-fishing, kayaking, hiking and gardening.
