Guiding Principles

Excellence. We demonstrate excellence in all work assignments and ensure that the right things are done at the right time at performance levels that meet or exceed expectations. We seek continuous improvement by learning how to be better tomorrow than we are today.

Integrity. We demonstrate honesty and ethical conduct in all actions and interactions. We adhere to the stated values, processes, and procedures of Salt Lake Community College.

People. We practice courtesy, respect, and fairness in all interactions with others and we value opportunity for personal growth and fulfillment. We seek inclusiveness in programs and opportunities.

Student-centered learning. Our interactions with students and the classroom pedagogies we deploy demonstrate concern for student learning. Student learning is at the forefront of all work initiatives and daily work activities. We measure student learning and seek ways to improve our teaching, work processes, and student performance. We develop and offer educational services that meet avocational, self-improvement, transfer, workplace, and general education needs. Students leave our courses and programs having been provided with opportunities for self-improvement. Their lives are better because of us.

Accreditation. We value accreditation as a measure and indicator of our work quality and the quality of our offerings. We seek to maintain the standards of local, regional, and national accrediting bodies.

Partnerships. We seek mutually beneficial partnerships with community members. We work with these partners to enhance our offerings, provide opportunities for students and faculty development, and to assist in strengthening our community.

Fiscal responsibilities. We exercise prudence and diligence in the management and use of available institutional resources.
