This program will prepare you for employment as a network administrator. Network administrators design, install, and support an organizations's LAN (local-area network), WAN (wide-area network), network segment, Internet, or intranet system. They provide on-site administrative support for software users in a variety of work environments, including professional offices, small businesses, government, and large corporations. They maintain network hardware and software, analyze problems, and monitor the network to ensure its availability to system users. Administrators also may plan, coordinate, and implement network security measures and make recommendations for enhancements in the implementation of future servers and networks.
