Introduction

Congratulations and welcome to one of the Salt Lake Community College study abroad programs. We are confident that you will find your experience in this program both life-changing and enlightening. By choosing to travel and study abroad, for whatever period of time, you are choosing to expand your personal, academic, and cultural view of the world.

Many times students have unique experiences while studying abroad, including: language issues, culture shock, scheduling problems, and personal behaviors not typical of your home experience. We sincerely hope that you will be excited by these challenges, and that you will view them as an opportunity to learn and grow personally. Also, we hope that you will utilize your intelligence, maturity, patience, flexibility and your sense of humor to manage any experience that comes your way. The information provided to you in this handbook should begin to answer most of your pre-travel questions. However, we strongly suggest that you enhance your experience by studying the customs and culture of the country you will be traveling to before you leave the United States. The more you know the better your experience will be.

Along with this handbook, specific information about the program you have registered for will be provided separately. There are several forms which require your signature. It is your responsibility to make certain they are returned to the SLCC Study Abroad Office by the applicable due dates. Refer to your specific program brochure for these due dates. Any questions or forms should be addressed to:

Salt Lake Community College Study Abroad Policies

Terms, Conditions, and Responsibilities

Salt Lake Community College (SLCC) has specific policy, procedure, terms, and conditions for all study abroad and student foreign travel programs. As a participant in a study abroad program, you will be required to sign a copy of the Terms and Conditions of Study Abroad and International Experience Programs & Statement of Responsibility and Assumption of Risk form, indicating that you have read and understand the document. Please take the time to read this and all other documents carefully. Be aware that there are legal aspects and considerations for your participation in our study abroad programs. If your program has a host institution abroad, that institution may also have forms that must be completed and signed as well.

Passport

If you do not already have a valid passport, it is strongly recommended that you apply for one immediately after being accepted into a study abroad program, if not before. Passport applications for U.S. citizens are available at most local post offices. Detailed passport information and application forms can also be found online at http://travel.state.gov/passport. You may rush your passport application, but an additional fee will be incurred.

If you currently have a passport, check the passport expiration date and verify that it will be valid for at least six months beyond your expected return date. Airline and immigration officials check this when you travel. If your passport is about to expire, you should apply to renew it before your trip.
Once you have your passport, sign it and make three photocopies of the page that shows the passport number and your photo. Leave one copy at home with a family member/responsible friend, give one copy to the Study Abroad Office, and take one with you. Keep your copy separate from your actual passport. This copy will help facilitate replacement in case your passport is lost, stolen or destroyed. Know where your passport is at all times.

The cost to apply or renew a passport is the responsibility of the student. Students who cannot participate in their program because they fail to obtain a passport, are refused entry by immigration officers upon arrival, or are prohibited from boarding a flight will be held to the standard refund policy.

The name on your airline ticket must exactly match your name as it appears on your passport for all international travel. If your name on your airline ticket does not match your name on your passport, you may not be allowed to board the plane. It is your responsibility to assure that all forms match your passport. Any cost for a name correction or re-issuing of a ticket will be the responsibility of the participant if he/she has given the Study Abroad Office incorrect information.

Orientations

Your study abroad group leader will hold several orientation meetings before you leave for your study abroad program. These meetings are very important to your success in the program. During orientations, you will:

- Receive important information pertinent to your program from the Study Abroad Office and your group leader
- Discuss required course work and readings
- Meet other student participants
- Learn details regarding your travel to your foreign destination
- Have an opportunity to ask questions

It is mandatory that you attend all orientation meetings scheduled for your program. Failure to attend orientations and complete course work could result in dismissal from the program. In the event that you are dismissed from the program, you will be held to the standard refund policy.

Personal Contact Information

Make sure that the study abroad program has all of your current contact information. Accurate mailing addresses, phone numbers, cell phone numbers, and e-mail addresses are critical in order to update you on any changes to your program or last minute updates to information you may need. Check your email account regularly and keep the Study Abroad Office informed of any changes to the contact information you have provided.
Student Conduct

A successful study abroad program experience depends on everyone who participates in the program to be responsible for his/her actions and respectful of everyone else who is involved in the program. As a participant in an SLCC study abroad program, you are expected and obligated to conform to the regulations of the Salt Lake Community College Student Code of Conduct and the laws of the country that you visit while participating in the program. The Student Code of Conduct is published on the College’s website; http://www.slcc.edu/policies/docs/Student_Code_of_Conduct.pdf In today’s global environment, misconduct may not only jeopardize your personal welfare, but the welfare of other students on the trip and the study abroad program as a whole. It is your responsibility to read, understand, and sign the Statement of Responsibility and Assumption of Risk document (a copy of which is on the study abroad website).

Your conduct while participating in the program should reflect positively on you, as well as your program group. You should be aware that you are one of several participants and that your individual actions may have a direct impact on another participant in your group or your roommates. Inappropriate behavior will not be tolerated and may jeopardize your full participation in the program. If you fail to abide by the expected standard of conduct, it could lead to your dismissal from the program and you could be sent back to Utah before the program is completed at your own expense.

Also be aware that while you are studying abroad, you are subject to local and national laws of the host country. Once you leave the United States, you are not protected by U.S. laws or constitutional rights. Therefore, it is important to be informed about the laws of the countries you will be visiting and abide by them.
Illegal Activity

While studying abroad, you are subject to local and national laws of the country which you are visiting, NOT the laws of the United States or Utah. Neither Salt Lake Community College nor the government of the United States of America can ensure your safety should you participate in an illegal activity and cannot protect you against arrest, incarceration, or punishment. It is important to be informed about the laws of the countries you will be visiting and abide by them. It is also advisable that you do not associate with anyone engaged in illegal activities. If you are arrested and/or incarcerated, contact your study abroad group leader as soon as you can. Your study abroad group leader, at your direction only, will contact the person of your choice on your behalf.

Illegal Drugs

Do not under any circumstances carry, use, buy or sell illegal or controlled substances. If you are detained or caught with illegal substances abroad, you are subject to local, not U.S. laws. In the event that a program participant is detained or arrested by foreign officials for possession of an illegal substance, there is little that Salt Lake Community College or the U.S. government can do for you. Penalties for possession or trafficking of illegal drugs are very severe.

Alcohol

As stated in the Student Code of Conduct, “Salt Lake Community College has the responsibility to maintain an educational environment conducive to academic and vocational achievement. The College recognizes that the use and abuse of alcohol...interferes with students' educational goals. Therefore, SLCC has a stringent policy governing the use of alcohol...” Simply stated, alcohol is not permitted at any Salt Lake Community College sponsored event. During identified program hours or activities, drinking alcohol is prohibited. Please understand most cultures disapprove of “getting drunk.” The consumption of alcohol can put you and/or the group at risk; personal and group safety is of the highest priority.

Sexual Harassment

Notify your group leader immediately if you feel you have been harassed or if you are at all uncomfortable with someone in your program, a host family member, an instructor, etc. You must make the study abroad group leader aware of the situation and ask for help in resolving the problem. If the harassment involves the group leader, please contact the SLCC Study Abroad Office using the contact information printed in this document.

Travel Arrangements

SLCC study abroad programs include the cost of all program related travel expenses. If for some reason you must make your own travel arrangements, the program price will be adjusted by an amount determined by the Director of the Study Abroad Program. Notice to the Study Abroad office of your intention to make your own travel arrangements must be made in writing on the same date as your application & deposit deadline (specific date in program brochure). If you make your own flight arrangements, you are required to give a copy of your flight itinerary to the Study Abroad Office at least 4-5 weeks prior to your departure. You will be given specific instructions on when and where to arrive. If you change your mind later, it may not be possible to obtain the same group rate and the program price may be higher.

If you plan on doing additional personal travel after the program ends, you must alert the Study Abroad Office in writing no later than 120 days before the program departure date. Upon submitting this request, you agree to pay additional fees associated with your airfare. You must also review and sign the Individual Statement of Responsibility form.

Independent Travel

If you plan to do any traveling on weekends or other free time during your program, please notify your study abroad group leader of your travel plans. You must provide information about where you are going and when you plan to return in order to assist your group leader in case of an emergency. Please be aware that any and all independent travel is at your own expense and at your own risk. It is advised that you travel in groups of two or more for safety. Salt Lake Community College is not responsible for independent travel. The Study Abroad Office does not review your travel plans, send you supplemental information, or provide advisories for independent travel. Doing research on the country will help you decide what extra activities to do while you are there. Make yourself the most informed traveler possible. In all programs where SLCC credit is awarded, program participation is required and your independent travel must not interfere with classes or program activities.

Payment, Registration and Other Financial Information

Course Registration

SLCC study abroad programs are offered in conjunction with credit based courses. Students enrolled in a study abroad program must enroll for the course(s) associated with each program. Please refer to the specific program brochure. The costs related to registration, tuition, textbooks, etc. in a study abroad program are NOT included in the advertised price of the program.

Because courses associated with study abroad are “permission only” courses, the Study Abroad Office registers all study abroad students, each student is responsible for making sure he/she is registered for the course or courses related to the individual program. SLCC holds must be removed from your account in order for you to be registered for a study abroad course. If a student fails to resolve a hold prior to the registration period, the Study Abroad Office may be forced to withdraw the student from the study abroad program. The student will be charged any non-recoverable costs already incurred for the program.

Application

The study abroad application form is found on the study abroad website under “Forms.” A signed copy of your application along with a copy of your deposit receipt must be received by the SLCC Study Abroad Office by the program application deadline in order to be considered for program participation. Application deadlines are listed on the study abroad website or in the specific program brochures.

Deposit

A nonrefundable $500 deposit is required to secure your place on a program and is required at the time your application is made. The deposit will be applied to the program cost. Deposits may be paid at any SLCC Cashier Office using the payment form specific to your program available on the study abroad website or at the Study Abroad Office. Payments may be made by check, certified check, debit/credit card or money order made out to Salt Lake Community College with notation of the program you are applying for. A copy of your deposit receipt must be included with your signed application. If an applicant is determined to be ineligible to participate by the Study Abroad Office, the application deposit will be refunded in full. For a further explanation of refunds, please refer to the Refund Policy in this handbook.

Payment Schedule

Each program brochure includes the payment schedule for your specific program. Expenses covered in the program cost vary for each study abroad, and although not anticipated, the price may change due to fluctuation in currency exchange rates or number of participants. Study abroad program payments must be made to the SLCC Cashier Office. Please use the proper study abroad program payment form when making any payments. Payment forms may be found online at the study abroad website or at the Study Abroad Office. The SLCC Cashier Office accepts payments made by cash, check, money order, or debit/credit card. All program payments must be completely paid by the last date shown on the program payment schedule. A copy of all payment receipts must be turned in to the Study Abroad Office. If you have questions about payments or the payment schedule, please contact the Study Abroad Office.

Financial Aid

Most financial aid (loans, grants, scholarships) can be applied only for the SLCC credits associated with your program. If you are planning to use financial aid or scholarship money for your study abroad program, you must talk with your financial aid counselor before departure. It is your responsibility to understand the rules and regulations concerning the use of financial aid on your study abroad program. The Financial Aid Office may be contacted at 801-957-4410 or financialaid@slcc.edu.

Note: If you have financial aid, please speak to your financial aid counselor to determine how many credits you must maintain to keep your financial aid.

Cancellation Policy

The general SLCC Study Abroad Office policy is that we will cancel any Salt Lake Community College sponsored program in a location where the U.S. State Department has issued a travel warning or where the Study Abroad Office finds the location to be unsafe. The Study Abroad Office reviews the U.S. State Department information along with a variety of other reliable sources in order to have up-to-the-minute information on any country/countries where students are or will be studying.

Should a program cancellation become necessary for safety reasons prior to the program departure date, every effort will be made to refund recoverable expenses to participants. Should a program cancellation become necessary for safety reasons on or after the departure date and before the program’s designated termination date, our refund policy is that every effort will be made to refund recoverable expenses to the participants.

In both cases, the time of program cancellation will determine the actual returnable fees. The closer a program is to its start date, the less recoverable program expenses become. Likewise, program expenses become even less recoverable the closer a program is to its end date. For example, 3 months before a program starts, program fees have usually already been used to pay for services such as airfare and lodging. Similarly, once a program begins, expenses such as in-country transportation and excursion fees may have already been purchased. These program expenses may be considered non-recoverable. SLCC and its personnel will not be liable for unrecoverable expenses.

Salt Lake Community College reserves the right to cancel any SLCC study abroad program if a minimum enrollment as determined by the College is not met. If the minimum enrollment is not met within two weeks of the deposit due date, your deposit of $500.00 will be refunded in full.
If the Study Abroad program is cancelled close to or after the program start date, the Study Abroad Program Leader will, to the best of his/her ability, assist students in completing the coursework and requirements for the program.

Students may wish to consider purchasing trip cancellation insurance (sometimes referred to as trip insurance or travel insurance). Trip insurance is used to help alleviate some of the financial loss that may be incurred because your trip is interrupted, delayed, or cancelled by unpredictable events. Travel insurance usually provides broader coverage than just trip insurance. For a detailed explanation of coverage, please review the specific policy for the plan you may purchase. Participants are responsible for the cost of trip/travel insurance. It is up to each participant to choose whether or not to purchase trip/travel insurance. Any fees for trip/travel insurance would be an additional cost and is not included in the required program fee.

Refund Policy

The Study Abroad Office makes advance payments on behalf of participants; many payments are non-refundable. Non-recoverable costs include any financial commitments made on your behalf. These costs vary by program and typically increase closer to the departure date. When you decide to enroll in a study abroad program, you commit yourself not only to the thorough preparation necessary for you to experience the program’s full benefits, but also to a significant investment of money. Before applying to any program, you are urged to plan carefully and be completely familiar with the withdrawal policies and charges.

If an applicant is determined ineligible to participate, the $500 deposit will be refunded. If you withdraw any time after the date of your notification of acceptance, you will be held responsible for any costs that have been incurred on your behalf. These costs include:

- the non-refundable $500.00 deposit
- any non-recoverable program cost, up to the entire program fee

Salt Lake Community College reserves the right to cancel any SLCC study abroad program if a minimum enrollment as determined by the College is not met. If the minimum enrollment is not met within two weeks of the deposit due date, your deposit of $500.00 will be refunded in full.

Note: If a student is dismissed from the program due to behavioral, academic, legal, or other problems, no refunds will be given.

Additional Expenses

Any cost that the participant might incur while participating in the program, not identified as inclusions in the program plan (meals, non-program related travel/entrance fees, souvenirs, etc.), are the sole responsibility of each program participant. Please be certain that any charges accrued at a hotel, hostel, or other facility (laundry, internet use, etc.) are fully settled before departure. Each participant is also responsible for any damages to housing facilities, library fees or fines, medical treatment, etc. Reports of unpaid accounts may result in a hold being placed on your academic records.

Travel Tips and Health Issues

Money

Participants will need to bring money on their study abroad for expenses that are not covered by the program. Any costs not covered by the program are considered out-of-pocket expenses and are the responsibility of each participant. The amount of money you need to bring for these additional expenses varies on your personal spending habits AND the length of the program. Review the details of your program fees and be sure to understand which expenses are included and which are not. Be sure to calculate your expected expenses in both U.S. dollars and the host country currency. Calculate how much you will need and then add some for a cushion and emergency situations.

Most countries do not use U.S. dollars as their currency. You can exchange U.S. dollars for foreign currency overseas at most airports and banks. If you prefer to obtain foreign currency before departure, contact your bank. Locally, Zions and Wells Fargo banks offer currency exchange at their main offices in downtown Salt Lake City. Check with your own bank at least 30 days in advance to see if they offer this. Every time you exchange money, you can expect to pay a fee, which varies.

The most commonly accepted credit cards are VISA and MasterCard; however, American Express, Diners Club, and Discover Card are not as widely accepted internationally. Prior to departure, be sure to notify your bank and credit card company that you will be travelling and using your card internationally. Your credit/debit card may be disabled if you do not inform your company. Be aware that some banks and/or credit card companies may charge an extra fee for international transactions. Generally, any credit card must be in your name, not a parent’s, in order to be accepted or your card may be confiscated.

Prior to departure, notify your bank and credit card company that you will be travelling and using your card internationally.
Debit or credit cards with ATM capabilities are very useful when traveling to most countries. Most ATM machines allow you to withdraw money in the local currency. Check with your banking institution to verify that your ATM card is usable in your program country.

It is recommended to copy your card or record your credit card number and emergency card phone numbers in case your card is lost or stolen. Keep this information in a safe place separate from your credit card.

Airport Security and Customs

Since September 11, 2001 airports in the U.S.A. have significantly increased security and baggage screening procedures. Be certain you are familiar with current standards for both checked and carry-on luggage before you depart for the Salt Lake City International Airport.

Upon arrival in your destination country you will be required to go through Immigration and Customs. Have your passport accessible and follow the appropriate line for holders of U.S.A. passports. You will be asked several questions about the purpose of your visit and the length of your stay. Do not be intimidated by the questions; give honest and confident answers. The process is generally similar among most countries and fairly simple. You may be asked to open your luggage for inspection. Cooperate with authorities. If you are not carrying anything illegal or threatening, there is nothing to worry about. You should plan for extra time to clear security and other checkpoints at all airports.

Many international airports have armed guards, sometimes with security dogs, walking through the airports. This is very common and nothing to worry about. Remember, the tighter the security, the safer you will be.

Transportation Passes

Some SLCC study abroad programs include transportation passes. If transportation passes such as the BritRail, Japan Rail or Eurail pass are not included in your program, you may choose to purchase a train pass to allow for independent travel before, during, or after your program. Prices vary according to the type of pass you obtain with several different options to accommodate the traveler. If your program does not include one, check with any travel agency for information. Generally, these passes are not available to you once you arrive in your destination country, and must be purchased in the U.S. before you leave.

Accommodations

Group lodging is included for the duration of each faculty led SLCC study abroad program. The lodging type is identified in your program brochure and will be discussed further in orientation meetings. Lodging varies among hotels, dormitories, or youth hostels. Some programs may have a “home-stay” accommodation option. If you have questions about your identified lodging, please contact the Study Abroad Office.

Students are expected to adhere to the rules and regulations of their housing facilities. Some facilities enforce curfews and noise regulations. You are expected to be respectful of your host and follow these rules. Any property damages or fines that you incur during your program are your responsibility. Overnight guests are prohibited from staying in program lodging.

If you travel on your own before, during or after your program, you must make your own lodging arrangements and pay for those accommodations. Youth hostels may offer a good option. Some hostels require memberships so check with a travel agent before you leave. Many times hotels, hostels, pensions, B&B’s and monasteries/abbeys offer inexpensive, clean, and safe options. Check online resources and travel guides for prices and contact information.

Electrical Appliances

Voltages, electrical sockets and electrical plugs differ around the world. Read the voltage information located on your electrical appliances. Some appliances are dual voltage. If your appliance is not dual voltage, you will need to bring a converter. Converters are available at a variety of travel and retail stores. Be sure the converter you buy is usable in the country you are going to. You should consider the number of electrical appliances you take.

You will most likely need a plug adapter when abroad. The type of plug used in different countries may vary greatly. If you do not know the standard plug used in a country, it is best to buy a conversion kit that has adapters for a variety of countries.

Personal Health Information

The Emergency Contact & Health/Welfare Form is required if you participate in an SLCC study abroad program. All information collected by the Study Abroad Office will be kept strictly confidential. This information will only be used in case of an emergency in order to provide you with the best possible care. If you have a specific health condition, you may want to inform your group leader of the condition and what may be needed to assist you in an emergency situation.
Primary Medical Insurance

While participating in an SLCC study abroad program, you are required to maintain your primary insurance coverage. You must have proof of health and medical insurance coverage for participation in the program. Check with your insurance carrier for details on foreign coverage and how to make claims.

In other countries, payment will usually be due at the time the medical treatment is received. Generally it will be your responsibility to file the claim with your carrier later for reimbursement, so make sure to obtain an itemized receipt for the medical treatment.

Please carry your insurance card with you at all times while you are overseas.

Supplemental International Medical Insurance

The SLCC study abroad office may elect to enroll or require all study abroad participants to be enrolled in a supplemental international medical insurance plan. The type of insurance, and whether or not it is included in your program fee, will depend on the SLCC study abroad program. This insurance will only cover the official dates of the program. It is your responsibility to secure proper medical coverage for any travel prior to or after the dates of the program. The details of your international health insurance plan will be covered at your orientation sessions.

Pre-Departure Doctor/Dentist Visit

We recommend that you see your doctor and dentist for a routine examination prior to departure for your program. It is always advisable to discuss your travel plans and ask about any immunizations, medications, and health practices that might be recommended for your destination country.
Prescriptions and Medicine

Since medicines and other medical supplies may or may not be readily available to you in another country, it is important to take an adequate supply with you to last the duration of your time abroad. If you will be participating in an extended program, it is strongly suggested that you check with your health care provider about refilling any prescriptions you might need abroad. Remember that mail can take weeks to arrive so if you plan to use mail delivery, it may need to be expedited.

If you take any medication with you, pack it in your carry-on luggage. Keep the medication in the original prescription bottle, with the label in good condition, marked clearly with your name, the prescription name, and doctor’s name.

If you take allergy shots or insulin, take an adequate supply of well-labeled syringes. You should also carry a letter from your physician stating your medical need for carrying a supply of syringes and injectable medications.

If you wear glasses or contact lenses, take an extra pair with you as well as a typed copy of your prescription. If you wear contact lenses, take an adequate supply of contact lens solution as it may not be easily available or much more expensive than at home.

Note: If you need specific over-the-counter medications, take them with you. They may not be available abroad.

General Health Care

Travel, time changes, climates, and new food/beverages can weaken your immune system. Take care of yourself! Get plenty of rest, eat properly, and drink lots of potable water. Avoid caffeine and alcohol while flying as they tend to dehydrate you and can enhance “jet lag.” Get exercise regularly to help maintain your body and your energy levels.

In Case of Illness

If you become sick or are injured, let your group leader know immediately. He or she may be of assistance if you need to see a doctor or find a clinic or hospital. Do ask for help! Many times a short-term system upset will actually pass quickly. However, a more serious illness may need additional care. For all emergency situations, seek medical help immediately.

Safe Sex

You are an adult, capable of making your own decisions about personal relationships; however, don’t take undue risks or chances. In some countries, American women may become a target or seen as easy prey. Please be aware that what may be considered casual conversation or flirtation here may be considered sexual encouragement in other cultures. When you are out on your free time, go in groups. If you feel uncomfortable in any situation, get out of the situation as quickly as possible. Condoms are generally available in most countries; be safe and prepared. Please be considerate of your lodging situation and roommates if you have one or more.

Mental Health

Paying attention to your state of mind and mental and emotional well-being is important to maintaining a positive study abroad experience. Many students experience culture shock and some degree of homesickness while studying abroad. Understand this is normal and do not be afraid to talk about it with your peers or your group leader.

If you have a history of mental health conditions, it is important to disclose this information on the Emergency Contact & Health/Welfare Form. Due to the heightened emotions and the additional stresses of culture shock, psychological and emotional issues can become more pronounced or even manifest for the first time during a study abroad experience. The information on your Emergency Contact & Health/Welfare Form will be used to assist you in the event of an emergency.

Culture Shock

There is no doubt that you will have expectations about your trip and your life while traveling. Be very cautious about your expectations as they can lead to disappointment. We strongly request that you maintain an open mind about what you will see, the people you will meet, and all of the experiences you will have. Other countries and people are NOT always like us, nor do they do things our way! Recognize that this trip will be an opportunity for you to see how others live their lives. Enjoy and embrace the differences you will experience.

Be humble, respectful and understanding. View the world as a chance to learn. You will no doubt experience some of the following while abroad, depending on where you go: slow lines and service, crowded transportation, personal hygiene differences, strange and new smells, invasion of your “personal space,” people watching you, and probably questions about the United States of America and the government’s administration. Remember you are not in the U.S.A. and are a guest in another country. You are there to learn and experience a different view of the world including customs, traditions and rituals Enjoy being a culturally competent citizen of the world!

Final Thoughts

Travel is a wonderful way to see for yourself what you have been learning about during all your time as a student. Make the most of this amazing opportunity and see all that you can. Immerse yourself in the local culture; meet people from different countries, and learn about diverse world views. Respect and enjoy exploring other cultures and societies. Utilize your time to create a fun, educational and safe trip. Above all remember that you are the visitor and are representing your group, school and country. We wish you safe and interesting experiences and memories. Happy travels!

“To travel is to live.”
